The website I had in mind is a fashion information and lookbook site for men's street fashion.

I would include in the home-page:

- A clean nav bar with hover aspects

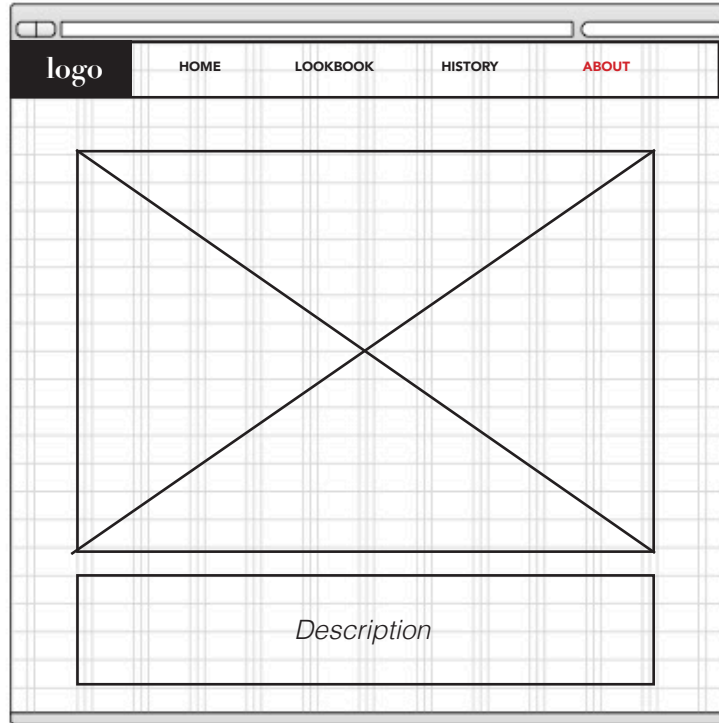

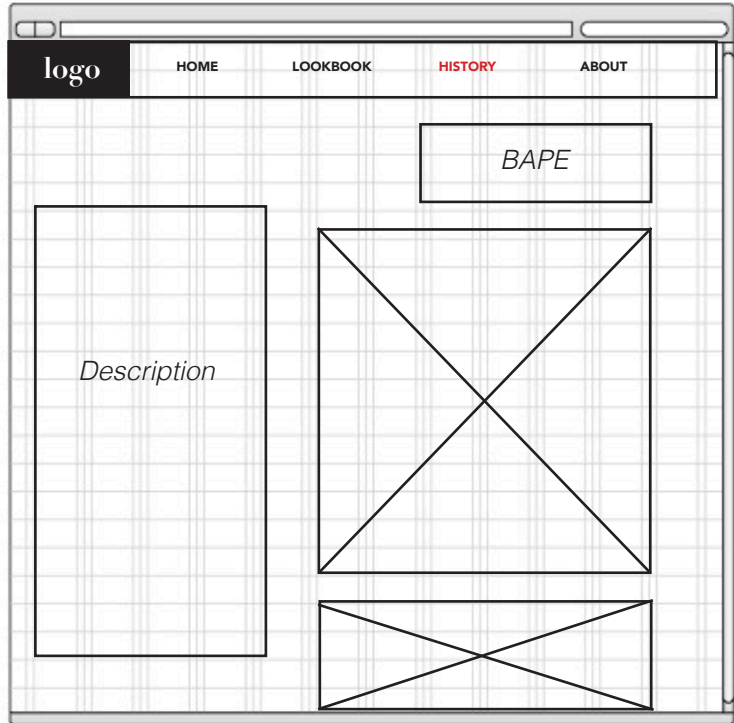

- An enticing graphic that when clicked upon, will redirect the user to the Lookbook page

- A description of the image

- Clicable box elements that will redirect the specific page to the particular sections on the History page.

(Not seen in graphics):

- Footer that contains the copyright symbol and Contact Us page

The x's in the boxes represent images. The descriptions are related to the images.

In regards to content, there are more descriptions and images as we scroll.
